Asternate as a Based of Directors. If would clear away much misconception if the physias body in cities, instead of being spoken of and thought of as a local legislature, could be looked upon and considered as a beard of increbors. In the powers of such a body in cities and considered as a beard of increbors in the powers of such a body in cities seem to pass beyond the functions of a board of directors is the right to adopt ordinances which are enforced by the shown to regional authority. They are constantly declared invalid by the courts have no original authority. They are constantly declared invalid by the courts because they contravens statutes of the erd by the grant of power to the city corporation. The inferences to be drawn from this discussion are two. First, that the whole question as to what as the contravens attacked as the best method of conducting this business is fairly open to discussion; second, that the question is one involving good judgment only. It does not involve the literates of the people or touch produced the contravens and the produced of the contravens.
